Rockwell License Scrubber Algorithm

Author: Alex Holburn

https://www.alexholburn.com

Flowchart:

User Runs Script/Executable → Paint GUI Main Canvas Components → User Presses "Scrub Rockwell Licenses" Button → Is OS Windows?

- Is OS Windows? — YES → Show Status Message OK: "Windows"
- Is OS Windows? — NO → Show Error Message: "Not Windows" → Show Status Message: "Aborted" → User Closes Script/Executable

Show Status Message OK: "Windows" → Does .rnl File Path Exist?

- Does .rnl File Path Exist? — YES → Show Status Message OK: "File Path Exists""
- Does .rnl File Path Exist? — NO → Show Error Message: "File Path Does Not Exist" → Show Status Message: "Aborted"

Show Status Message OK: "File Path Exists"" → Move .rnl dir to "Scrubbed_Rockwell_Licenses" → Does old .rnl Directory Exist?

- Does old .rnl Directory Exist? — YES → Show Error Message: "File Path Does Not Exist" → Show Status Message: "Aborted"

Does old .rnl Directory Exist? → Show Status Message OK: "Licenses Scrubbed" → Show Status Message OK: "Process Complete" → User Closes Script/Executable